What is a self help group?

Self help groups are support groups that offer and provide mutual support or mutual aid. People often gain huge benefits from talking to others who have a shared experience, whether it be a diagnosis of a long term condition or having faced a similar life experience such as loss, recovery or survival.

Groups may be run in a variety of ways, such as:

- Peer-led self help groups with face to face meetings
- Professionally supported self help groups
- Organisationally hosted self help groups
- Social network and online self help groups

What is a Self Help group?

Self help groups are support groups that offer and provide mutual support or mutual aid.

The members of the group share a common problem, issue, illness or addiction. People often gain huge benefits from talking to others who have a shared experience, whether it be a diagnosis of a long term condition or having faced a similar life experience such as loss, recovery or survival.

The mutual aim of the group is to give as well as to receive help, learn and share information and practical ways of managing and coping with their shared challenge and in doing so members inspire each other, gain more control and feel empowered to cope with their challenges and experiences.

If you are thinking about starting a self help group, have just started out or have had your first few sessions but feel you need some guidance, this workshop is for you.

This course will take you through:

- Identifying the need for your group
- Benefits of self help
- Key ingredients for self help groups
- Gaining members and momentum

What is a Self Help Group?

Self Help groups are support groups based around a condition, challenge or situation shared by all members of the group, who meet regularly to provide mutual support and discuss issues related to that condition. Self Help groups are usually free to join and the job of running, facilitating and maintaining the group is shared by its members.

With this course you will:

- Build a free simple website for your group using WIX
- Add text, images and links
- Create a custom menu
- Create a bespoke contact page and map to your venue.

No experience necessary. Our team will guide you through each step and show you creating a website is easier than you think!
